. . . the formation of the

MERRIMACK GRADUATE

Merrimack . . . formation of the broad basis of life . . . history of the variegated cultures, seeds of our own . . . Economics, the way all life moves . . . Philosophy, the knowledge of humanity's greatest gift to the ages, its ideas . . . Ethics, the way men live and order their existence . . . hard thudding drum of feet, healthy bodies whistled to a halt . . . I know of bells signalling His Presence; Agnus Dei shrouded in stillness . . . of beautiful gowns and joyous faces, lifted above all for a night . . . all these do I know, and remember, and live by.

in the

MERRIMACK COLLEGE

NORTH ANDOVER, MASSACHUSETTS

Right, above:
Commencement exercises in front of the main administration building, Austin Hall, mark the culmination of the undergraduate matriculation at Merrimack. Though a time of joy and gladness, it summons the nostalgia of many fond and cherished memories . . .

Right:
. . . of the times we spent in prayer, asking for the aid and peace of mind so necessary at this time. The trials and tribulations which once seemed to us so ponderous seem to mingle and be resolved in this repose.

Below:
. . . of classrooms and teachers, of labs and the library, of slide rules, term papers, finals, and grades. The road to knowledge is a slow and arduous one; not so the pace of students retiring from Sullivan Hall.

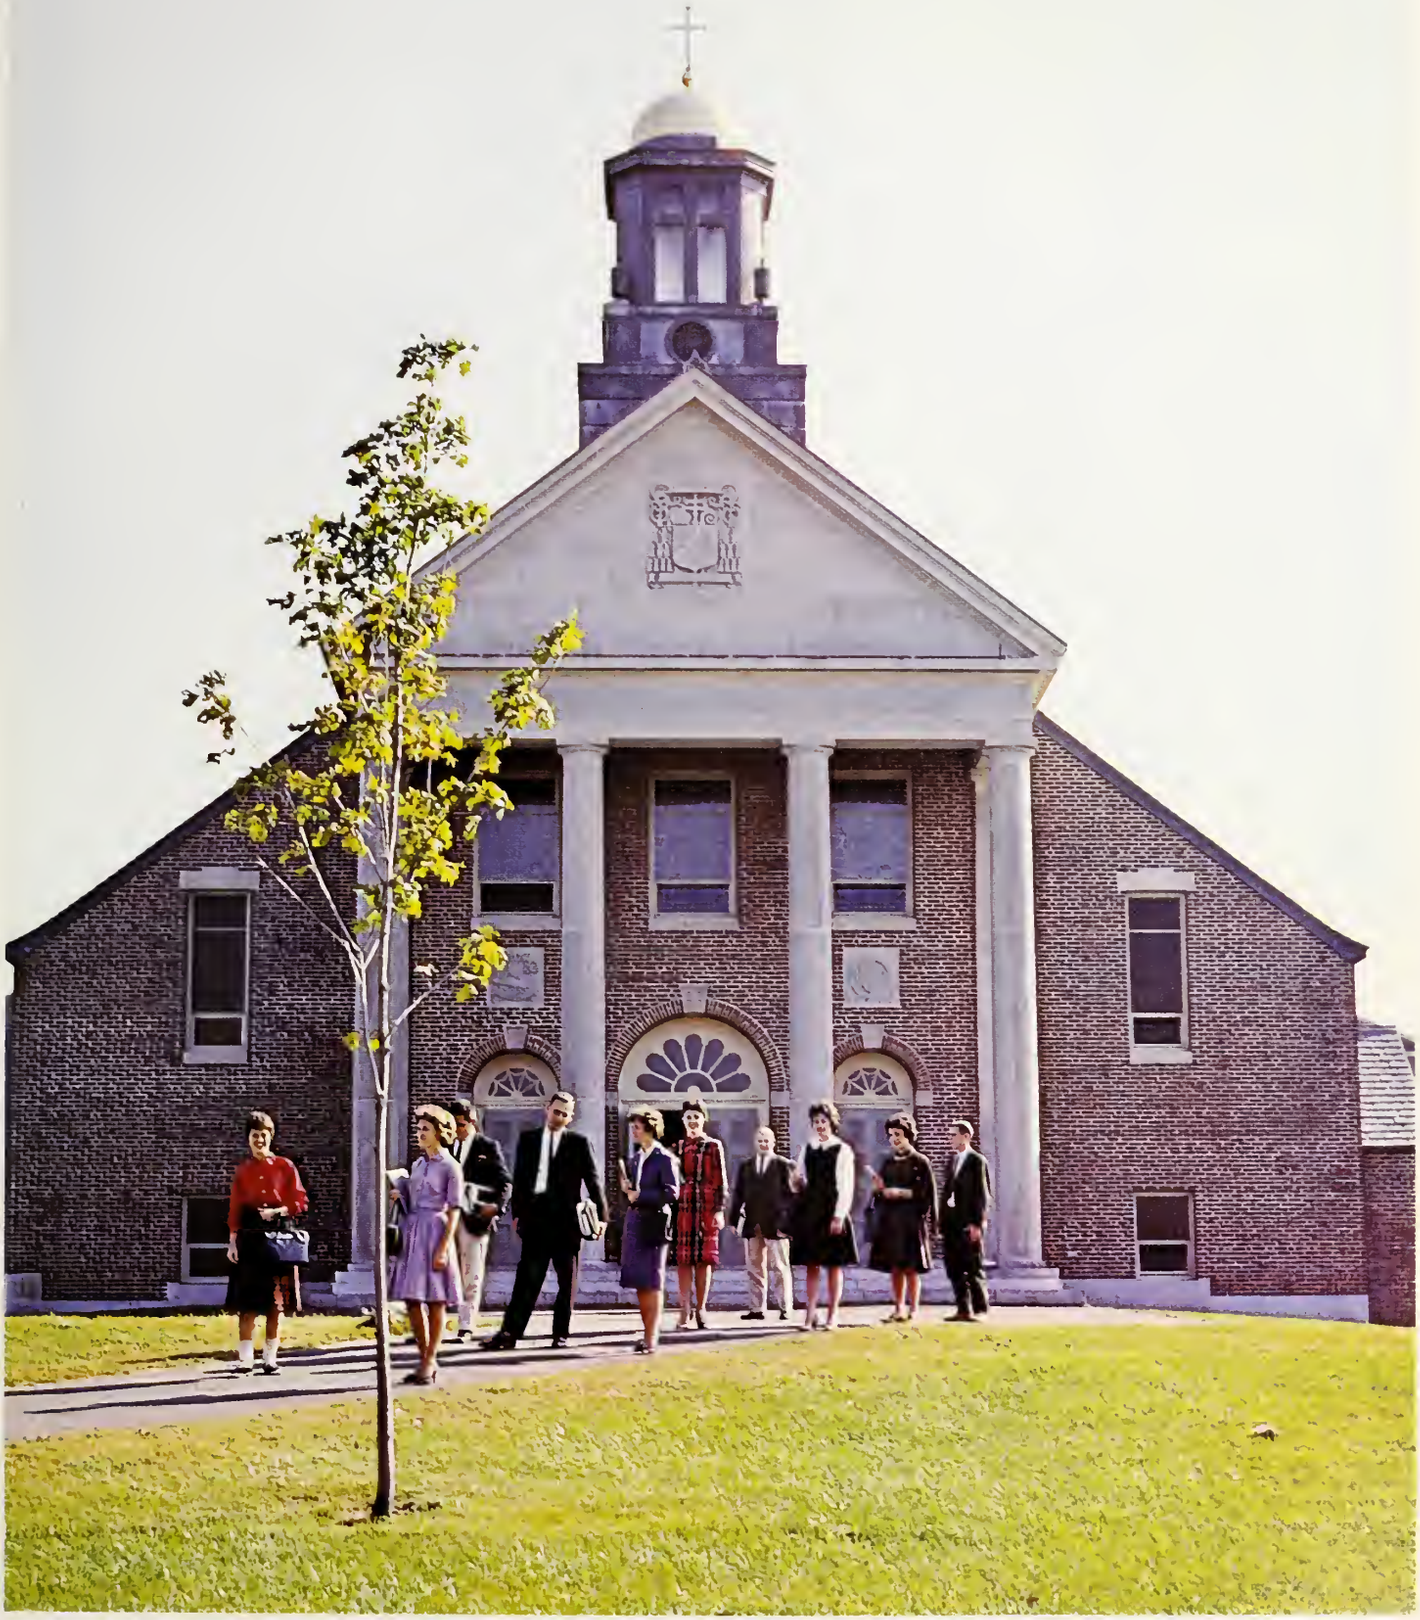
. . . of the growth we have witnessed at Merrimack. The erection of the dormitories marked an important milestone in our College history.

. . . of discussions and those happy times that came with the first hint of Spring when the College sages annually sprang forth from the wilderness.

. . . and who can forget those long hours in the library when all the world lay open at our touch and the satisfaction we found in countless books.

. . . or the loneliness we felt when the fleeting steps of time were brought once more to mind by some vestige of the past, as Cascia Hall, our first dorm.

. . . or those precious moments spent reminiscing, dreaming, hoping with dear friends on long remembered happenings and days of yet to be.



All these and more will we recall when graduation beckons and draws nigh . . . the studies and the toil, the dreams and aspirations, the joy and the fulfillment . . . but most of all, the love and truth we found.

FACULTY

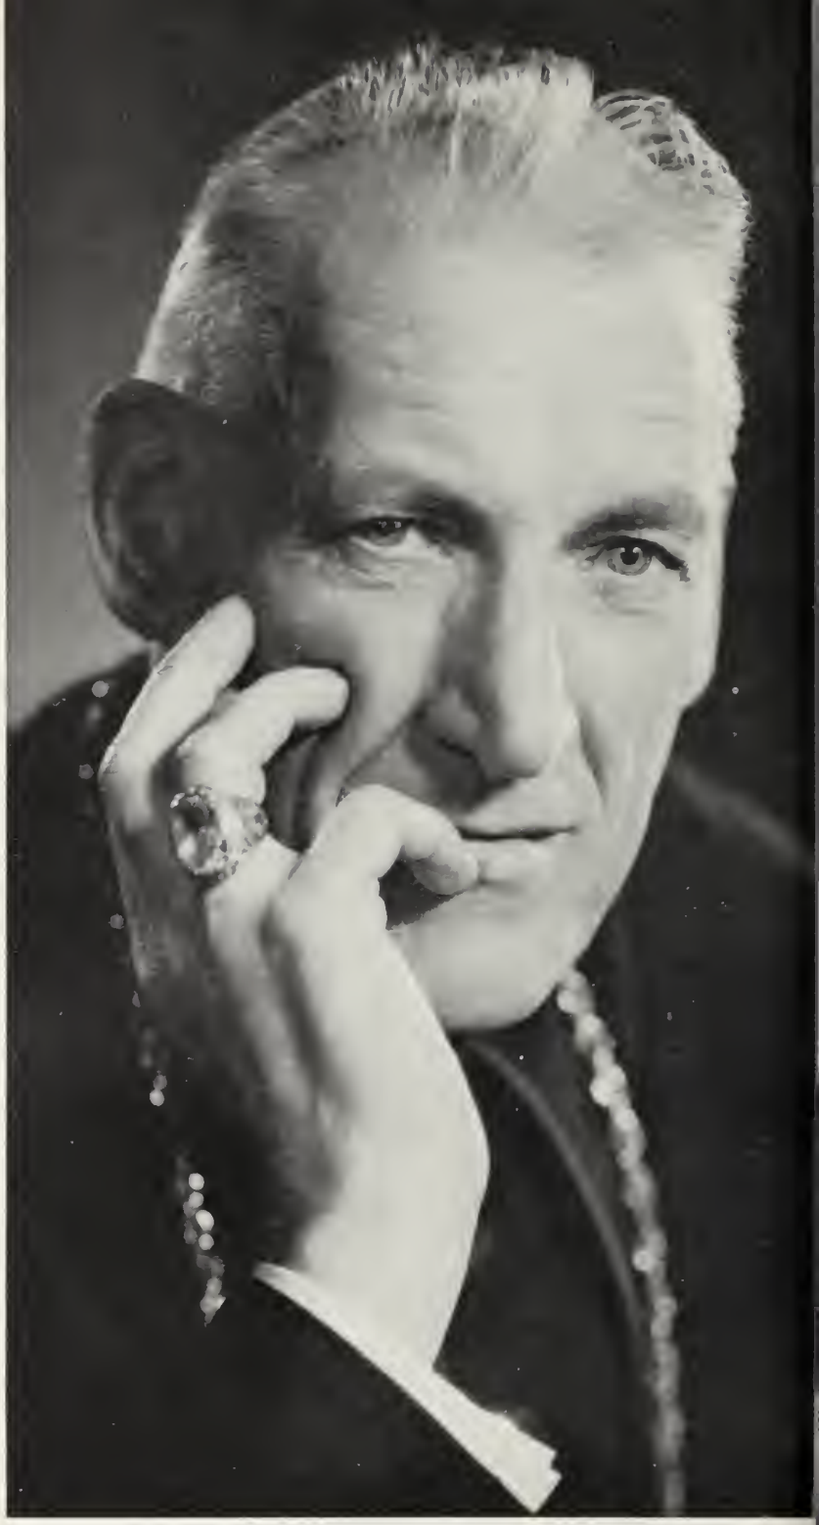
Awed by their stature and remoteness . . .

I desperately scrawled my first notes, taking all down without completely knowing why. And then, stimulated by time and the slow process of maturity, with a more developed sense of understanding, I found myself working toward their conclusions. Affected by their individual creeds and personal philosophies, I incorporated these into my way of thinking, believing, and expressing. From chance meetings in canteen or library, I felt the warmth of their personal interest; I sensed their desire to hasten mutual understanding. These dedicated teachers, by their example, taught me to grasp the essentials, to feel the pulse of living.

PROVINCIAL

The Very Reverend James A. Donnellon, O.S.A., A.B., M.S., Ph.D., Prior Provincial of the Province of Saint Thomas of Villanova competently directs the progress and development of Merrimack as Chairman of the Board of Trustees. Father Donnellon possesses foresight and administrative ability integrated with a congenial personality. His action and paternal encouragement have been a vital factor in the advancement of Merrimack College.

The faculty and students of the College extend to him heartfelt appreciation.



The name of Richard Cardinal Cushing is revered by Merrimack students for his bountiful charities and generosity. We have all experienced the influence of his kindness. Not content with being a leader in the founding of the college, he continued to guide us through these formulative years. The rapid growth of Merrimack College is a testimony to the foresight and ability of this man. The position of leadership is a lonely and responsble one: it can never be fully understood, but it can and has been appreciated.

PRIOR

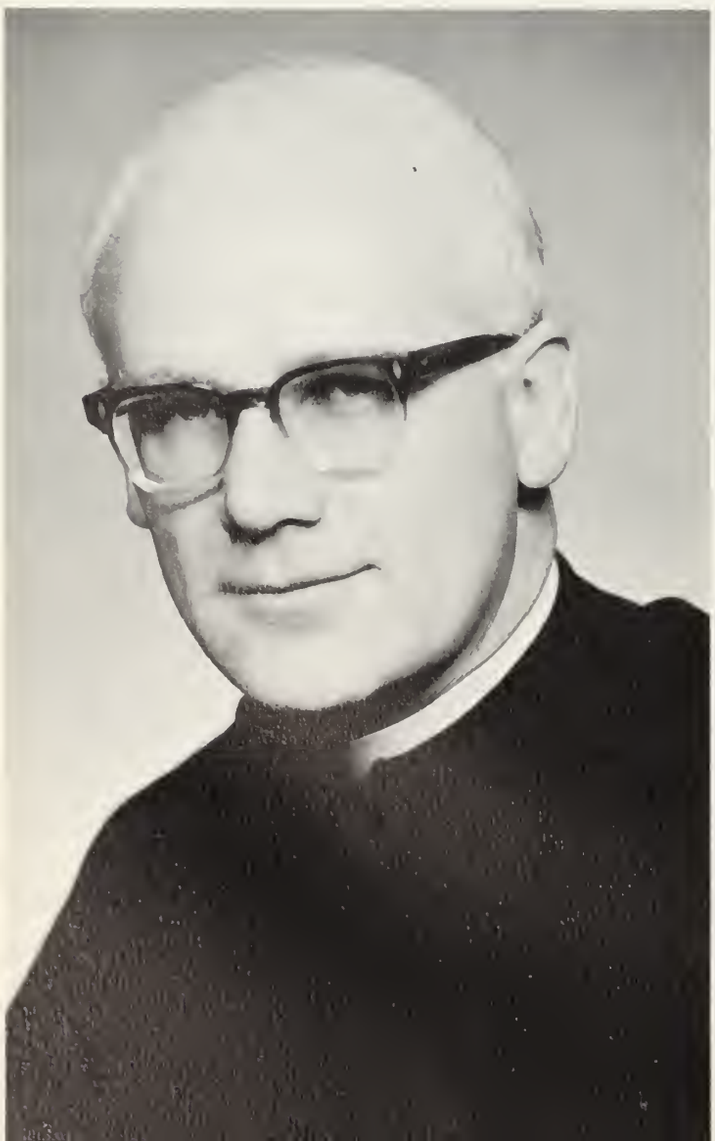
Very Reverend Arthur B. Maxwell, O.S.A., Litt.D. is Prior of the Monastary of Our Lady of Good Counsel at Merrimack College. His wise policies in fulfilling this responsible office are reflected in the excellent example set for us by the Augustinian Fathers at Austin Hall. His spirit of genuine interest is sincerely appreciated by both the priests and students of Merrimack.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The Board of Trustees exercises a general control over all of the policies of Merrimack College. The diffieult and important decisions concerning this Institution must be made by a qualified group of men who have the best interests of the College in mind. For this task, Merrimack has been blessed with competent administrators. The members are, left to right: Rev. Vincent A. McQuade, O.S.A., Rev. Paul M. Judson, O.S.A., Rev. Edward J. Carney, O.S.A., Rev. John J. Daley, O.S.A., Rev. Henry B. Smith, O.S.A., Rev. Thomas F. Walsh, O.S.A., and Rev. Patrick J. Rice, O.S.A.

PRESIDENT

The responsibilities of co-ordinating the ever increasing activities of a College such as Merrimack lie directly before the President of the school. Very Reverend Vincent A. McQuade, O.S.A., Ph.D., Merrimack's distinguished Father President has been most instrumental in the foundation and remarkable growth of this institution. Today, Merrimack College stands as a monument to his success. He who led the College to its present position can now look back upon his achievements with a sense of satisfaction. Sincerest gratitude is extended to him from both colleagues and students.



VICE-PRESIDENT

As Vice-President and Dean of the College, the Reverend John M. Driscoll, O.S.A., exercises firm and confident control over the academic operations of the College. It is through his personal understanding of the problems of both the faculty and students that Father Driscoll is able to satisfy the requirements of his office. For the admirable work that he has been doing, the gratitude of the students is extended to him.

UNDERCLASSMEN

Deeply impressed . . . behind buttons and under beanies . . .

bewildered by new concepts and new faces . . . "My name is" . . . part of a crowd and yet alone . . . "Pardon me, sir" . . . herded by sophomores, singing the Alma Mater on the steps of Tagastan Hall . . . then . . . you are sophomores now, giving orders . . . "Put on that beanie, Frosh" . . . laughing with friends . . . "Look at those freshmen! We were never like that" . . . confident; self-assured; wise fools . . . at last, Juniors . . . humbled by problems and answers we never knew . . . good times mingled with responsibilities . . . "Soon you will be leaders" . . . Junior Week-parents, rings . . . all these things do you remind us of . . .

Excellent wench! Perdition catch my soul, but I do love thee! And when I love thee not, chaos is come again.

You're next, frosh. I'd like you to sing rule "e" backwards to the tune of "Hit the Road, Jack"—and don't forget the quotation marks.

Get thee to a nunnery! These unsuspecting young ladies have been charged with the unpardonable crime of insubordination to members of the illustrious Orientation Committee.

Above: These Freshmen get more obnoxious every year. Here I am an active and young Sophomore of less than two weeks and they've reduced me to a figure sans sleep, sans lunch, sans energy.

Below: Fumbling, frightened Freshmen face their fate with tongue in cheek. Now they vow with firm conviction to treat upperclassmen with due respect—for at least a week.

ENVIRONMENT

These I have lived by . . . Friday convocations, bended knees, hungry heart beckoning its Bread . . . Rising curtain, glaring lights, my onstager debut . . . sounds of laughter, a dinner dance table filled with friends, forever cherished . . . Monican and Austin Centers, here are roommates, books and rumpled clothes . . . "O Holy Night," sweetly stirring voices herald the Blessed Season . . . scent of cut grass, peopled rocks, signs of spring . . . hushed classrooms, furrowed brows, quickly moving pens, indicators of the inevitable. These are the seeds of my education: seeds nurtured by an environment distinctly their own and yielding a mind too much a part of Merrimack to lose sight of her.

The recollective spirit of Retreat encourages students to practice their religious training through frequent reception of the sacraments.

RELIGION

In serving the Mass, these members of the Sanctuary Society, representing every educational department, manifest a reverence and respect for their honored position close to God's Presence.

The academic year commences with the annual Retreat. Father's guiding words renew the importance of religion in every phase of college life.

Hoc est enim Corpus meum. Every Merrimack student finds embodied in these hallowed words the inspiration needed to fulfill his academic and religious life.

MERRIMACKAN

It is only through the devoted efforts of many people that any project worthy of note can be accomplished. The untiring spirit and willingness to work of the entire staff of the Merrimackan made enjoyable what might otherwise have been an impossible task.

The Yearbook. . . . The final task of our college years, the last gift we can give to the school and to ourselves. Unnumbered years from now we will turn back and see ourselves and remember the laughter and the shouts. We will see our professors, the men who gave us a frame in which to live. We will see and remember the priests, men who showed us the mercy of God's means and gave us a frame in which to die. We will see you, the underclassmen, and we will recall the realities behind your pictures . . . behind those glimpses caught and preserved in this, our story of four years.

Maryanne Twomey, Jack Devine and Maryellen Rourke were Assistant Editors who gave unstintingly of their time.

WARRIOR

Peg McGinnis and Don Porter, 1961 co-editors, are shown here with the incoming editorial staff. This staff works together diligently and efficiently to produce an accurate and informative newspaper. Each article must be thoroughly reviewed before it is sent to be published. Thus, their advance planning and close teamwork results in an effective newspaper.

Ernie Kelly and Peg Coughlin confidently look forward to a promising year as the new co-editors of the 1962 Warrior.

"I really think they should add the 'Peanuts' comic strip to the next publication."

Every major event and newsworthy story is exploited by the staff of the Warrior so that the students will have a detailed account of the happenings on campus.

Objectivity and complete campus news coverage are the stated goals of the Merrimack Warrior. This self-supporting student organization strives to present the student body with an intelligent and up to date bi-monthly newspaper while, at the same time, acting as a sounding board for student opinion.

The Warrior offers capable students an opportunity to gain valuable experience in numerous fields; namely, editing, reporting, feature and sports writing, photography, advertising, and business management.

Complex and hectic as it may be, the entire staff cannot help but feel a degree of self satisfaction every time the Warrior "hits" campus.

The Carillon is the literary magazine of Merrimack College. It is created by a small staff who work in close connection with Mrs. Yvonne Ground, their faculty moderator. The purpose of the Carillon is to afford an opportunity for everyone on campus to express his literary talent and to have this talent recognized. The magazine is well received and is sent out to colleges across the country on an exchange basis. Since its inception this publication has become one of the most popular features of the campus.

As editor of the Carillon, John Perreault works closely with Don Misenti, the business manager, striving to make this literary publication an outstanding success.

A few staff members work conscientiously on plans for the next issue of the Carillon, editing manuscripts written by members of the student body.

CARILLON

Under the capable direction of Mrs. Yvonne Ground, the Penman Club was organized to improve the literary talents of students who are seriously interested in writing. The group, meeting informally, constructively criticizes the work of a member enabling him to improve his technique.

PENMEN CLUB

The Literary Club exists to fulfill the intellectual and aesthetic needs of the student. Attending plays and lectures, sponsoring films, listening to recorded literature, and exchanging ideas through informal discussions are primary activities, while interest in the musical and plastic arts is also encouraged.

LITERARY CLUB

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council, the most important and powerful student organization, is composed of capable and respected undergraduates. The rapid growth of the student body and the expanding scope of the Council's activities necessitated the addition of five new members to this year's Council bringing needed assistance for the difficult and time-consuming task of coordinating student programs.

The Student Council assembles weekly acting as a mediator between the student body, the faculty, and the administration. The Council oversees all student activities including club day. Pictured here is Jim Lane, chairman of student activities, discussing the Warrior display with some prospective reporters.

Chairman Edward Healy discusses with Margaret Coghlan a new regulation soon to be enforced.

The Student Council ponders over a myriad of problems presented by the students of all classes.

"They probably haven't even seen a tableeloth!" Bill Horan tells Fran Mele who is worried about the looks of her home. Her poverty strieken eousins are coming to live with them as illegal entries from Italy.

ON-STAGERS

The "On-Stagers" is one of the few associations on campus that has a two-fold purpose. In conjunction with being an entertaining organization it has for its main objective an academic fulfillment. It attempts to educate not only the participants in the production but also the audience so that they may achieve a degree of theatrical understanding. In the last production, "A View From The Bridge" by the Pulitzer Prize winning author Arthur Miller, the efforts of the members were clearly shown by the enthusiasm of the audiences and the sense of fulfillment that was experienced by the cast itself and all who had been active in the production.

CHORAL SOCIETY

Father Thomas Walsh conducts the Christmas Concert, a popular cultural function which is performed on campus by the Merrimack College Choral Society. This is one of the two annual concerts given and represents only a portion of the many programs in which the Choral Society participates during the school year.

The Winter Concert, given by Merrimack's Choral Society, augments the splendor of the Christmas season by presenting sonorous carols and typically festive melodies.

Recognized as one of the great contributors to the increasing renown of Merrimack College, the Choral Society is traditionally our Ambassador of Good Will.

Under the expert direction of the Reverend Thomas Walsh, O.S.A., the members of this group give Christmas Concerts in hospitals throughout Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill, and Danvers as well as at the college itself. Each spring, the Choral Society tours New York City where they are traditionally well received.

One of the group's most appealing characteristics is its tremendous spirit and enthusiasm, aspects that are mirrored in their dedicated moderator.

"Someone must know what the next song is!" Such hidden qualms are not often evident to the concert audience who view this well-organized production.

BENZENE RING

The Benzene Ring, affiliated with the Chapter of the American Chemical Society, is composed primarily of chemistry students seeking the achievement of a more encompassing knowledge of their chosen professions. Added impetus for forming future plans is afforded by the busy schedule of meetings, lectures by guest speakers, and field trips conducted by the club.

Merrimack College's biology and pre-med students are given the opportunity to complement their school work by the Caduccan Club, one of the more prominent organizations on campus. It is designed to further the members' scientific interest and understanding and to provide an outlet for the new ideas and aspirations of its members. To establish a professional attitude among members is one of the primary purposes of this active organization.

CADUCEAN CLUB

AEGIDIANS

Members of the Education Club listen attentively to Jack Morris, president, as he gives an outline of the coming events for the group. The club includes members of the student body who are interested in the teaching profession. Advisors in the teaching field keep the Aegidians well informed on the latest problems and techniques.

The value of the Economics Club, one of the newest organizations on the campus, can be seen in its two main objectives. The primary function of this group is to stimulate discussion on contemporary politico-economic subjects, and for this purpose weekly meetings are held. The second objective is to function as a social organization and this aim is realized in the frequent gatherings of its members.

ECONOMICS CLUB

SOCIOLOGY CLUB

Among the active clubs on campus is the Sociology Club, which is under the capable direction of Mr. Peterson. The club is comprised of Sociology majors as well as others who are interested in the Social Sciences and its related fields. It fulfills its purpose by the presentation of guest speakers, panel discussions and field trips to various institutions.

CULTURAL HERITAGE CLUB

The Cultural Heritage Club, like the literate walrus, speaks of many things. All the facets of our variegated heritage are examined and discussed in great detail. By their actual contact with such things such as our history, the arts, politics, and foreign affairs, a greater understanding of our milieu is achieved. The members of this group strive to develop a greater knowledge and appreciation of our culture.

BUSINESS CLUB

The Business Club, comprising the majors of Marketing, Business Administration, Accounting, and Secretarial Science, affords its members the opportunity to hear national executives and prominent local businessmen. Application of classroom theorizing as a result of informative speeches and conferences enables the students to discuss managerial problems by means of informal round table discussions. A liaison between student and professor is thus attained which is beneficial to the student.

SECRETARIAL SCIENCE CLUB

The Secretarial Science Club consists of all students registered in the Secretarial Course in the School of Business Administration. The officers of the club plan various activities for the members such as field trips and speakers from local and national firms and the alumnae. The most important function of the club is the Annual Fashion Show which is run exclusively by the girls and the proceeds of which are donated to the campus building fund. In this manner pleasure and a worthy cause are interrelated.

ACCOUNTING CLUB

The Accounting Society, one of the most pertinacious clubs on campus, helps augment and amplify the interests of its members with the aid of guest lecturers from governmental agencies, national firms, and prominent local accountants. This society sponsors a student-alumni banquet in the fall as well as its traditional banquet in the spring. Numerous field trips, conferences, and discussions make up a year of beneficial endeavors for those interested in the field of accounting.

PHYSICS SOCIETY

The Physics Society is a medium through which the student of physics and other related fields such as engineering may increase their knowledge of physical principles. The Society supplements the student's classroom education with lectures and demonstrations which are conducted by members of the faculties of Merrimack College and neighboring universities. Field trips are also undertaken in order to stimulate a greater knowledge and understanding of the science of physics.

ENGINEERING GUILD

The largest club on campus is the Engineering Guild. It is comprised entirely of students in the Department of Engineering. The guild is composed of two separate groups: the American Institute of Electrical Engineering and the Civil Engineering Guild. Both endeavor to familiarize the engineering students with the various phases of their particular fields. One of the highlights of the fall social season is the annual Transit Trot which is sponsored by the Engineering Guild.

EPSILON DELTA SOCIETY

The ability to understand Mathematics is a gift that is possessed by only a few. Beyond this understanding it is necessary to develop an appreciation and an interest in the field. The Epsilon Delta Society is an organization that is mainly concerned with fostering this interest and appreciation. Some of the projects sponsored by the members are underwriting guest faculty and student speakers and providing an opportunity to visit neighboring research plants. The frequent appearance of their publication, "The Limit," tends to provoke interest and to serve as a stimulus for originality among the students. The society also tries to develop in its members a realization of the effects of Mathematics on an individual's personality and to show that "the essence of mathematics lies in its freedom."

PHI KAPPA THETA

Founded upon the principles of Catholic brotherhood, Phi Kappa Theta has been active on campus since 1960. The year 1961 marks the terminus of its colonial status and the assumption of full chapter affiliation. As the National Social Fraternity at Merrimack, PKT has striven to realize the goals of the national organization.

Under the capable leadership of its executive board, Phi Kappa Theta aims to develop and grow with Merrimack and cooperate with it in forming men of quality and character. This year's board is comprised of: Mike Thornton '62, President; Harvey Rowe '63, Vice-President; Bill Gallagher '63, Secretary; Jim McMorrow '62, Treasurer; and Bill Marion '63, Sergeant-at-Arms.

The Executive Board. Frank Girard, Ed Healy, Joe McHugh, and Larry Goudreau, work hard to make the fraternity a success.

SIGMA BETA KAPPA

One of the oldest and most outstanding organizations on campus is Sigma Beta Kappa, a social fraternity which stresses social life under Catholic aspects. It aims at establishing a strong foundation for a lasting and true friendship among the "brothers." A sense of Christian morality instilled in the members promotes character development and campus leadership and is supplemented by a well balanced religious and social program offered by the fraternity. Sigma Beta Kappa undertakes the task of serving as a welcoming committee and also as hosts for many of Merrimack's social functions. Twice a year the fraternity offers a pledging or initiation period to prospective members. Any freshman or sophomore is allowed to participate in this six week program during which time the "pledges" are carefully screened by the members. Sigma Beta Kappa truly fulfills its obligations as a Catholic fraternal organization.

Lovely Mary Butler, Miss Merrimack of 1962, regally occupies her beautifully decorated throne while her charming court proudly surrounds her. From the twelve candidates, Mary Anne Twomey, Maryellen Rourke, Trish Devaney, and Brenda Connelly were chosen as members of the queen's court.

The judges, looking troubled after scrutinizing the twelve candidates, consult with moderator, George Pollock, before the final decision is confirmed. They are certainly having difficulty. One of them remarked, "Couldn't we make them all queens!"

Amidst the exquisitely colored autumn leaves scattered on deep blue furled curtains, a beautiful waterfall scene, and golden bushes, stand twelve anxious contestants awaiting zero hour when the judges would announce the lucky winners.

THE HARVEST BALL

Al Sotera and his date purchase their tickets and enter the enchanting fall paradise to dance under the harvest moon among the brilliant autumn hues.

DINNER DANCE

The annual Senior-Junior Dinner Dance was held February 21, 1962, at the Regency Ballroom, Hotel Somerset, Boston. Seated at the head table with the chairman of the event. Pat Watson, and the class officers are the guests of honor, Father Daley, Father McQuade, Father Fenton and Father Matthews.

Maybe the twist was too much for these Merrimack students who are shown "sitting one out" in the lobby. Come on, Eddie, you can't be that tired. Marybeth, "The Lady in Red," is rarin' to go!

We realize she said she wanted a big corsage, Tom, but this is ridiculous!

Do you really think I'm that handsome, Jane? Mother thinks I'm getting chubby.

Unperturbed by the fact that his picture is being taken, Frank McCarthy nonchalantly swallows his role. whole! Don't worry, Barbara, there are more where that came from. Below: Regina danced on with the strawberry blond. and the band played "Let's Twist."

A great friend to many and yet at times a forgotten person, is our own Brother Charles. Here he is engaged in one of his many daily chores.

With final exams only weeks away, these diligent students make frantic use of the library.

MERRIMACK

Many hours are given to tedious lab work in the life of the pre-med student. This is just one phase of biology in which each major must become expert.

Miss Powers, assistant librarian, is always willing to cooperate with the students in helping them select material. Here she is shown giving George Haigh a few suggestions for a research paper.

AT WORK

"Oh to be a student again!" thinks this janitor as he sweeps the steps of the Student Union building. "I wonder if he thinks this at exam time?"

Left: Why so much enthusiasm, boys? Do you always get this excited over a free period? Or is it that term paper due tomorrow which you haven't started yet?

. . . AT REST . . .

"Juggler Jack McKinnon" shows his dexterity before an appreciative audience at the well-known Hi-Spot. Community Auditions needs YOU, Jack!

"Don't tell me the New York Times has added a comic section!" What else could be the cause of such merriment?

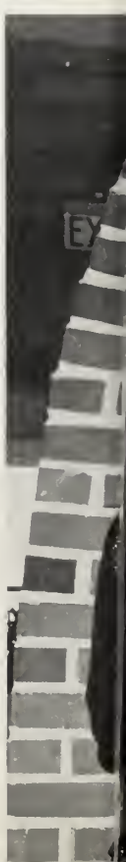
"After all, fellas, a genius does require some sleep!" However, Bill Horan chooses a peculiar time to catch some shut-eye much to the amusement of his fellow classmates.

"When day is done, etc." a charming coed sheds the worries of scholastic life and enjoys a moment's relaxation perusing one of the popular fashion magazines. "Will that dress do, Fizza?"

As Economic majors, Jack and Ed, find little time to appreciate things of artistic value, such as contemporary cards. Tom, however, an avid reader, particularly in the field of art, is disgusted with his colleagues' ignorance.

These girls are all right; they always sit in the fireplace. "Maybe now they'll believe us when we tell them how cold it is in the dorm."

Hans and Katrina seem to have forgotten something. Could it be their skates? Arthur thinks that if they plan to "don the robes" in June, they had better smarten up.



. . . So who needs a candelabra? Roger and Frank certainly have Jerry in a trance.

Congratulations, Harvey! You've finally been elected queen of something!

. . . AT PLAY

There must be a good explanation for this picture, but right now we can't think of any. Maybe you could help us, Ed.

SPORTS

I remember . . . corded muscles glistening with sweat, high jumping midst the roar of distant hands . . . the cold dispelled by stamping feet as black rubber is guided goalward by flashing skates; I hear the foam flecked slap of green water on caulked wood as white sails grow in the sky. I see green pine, sentinels against the white slope as brightly arrayed bodies swoop and glide. I see the straining intent as an arm swung racquet drives the ball toward the baseline. All these I have known . . . also the sadness of losing . . . and the throat tightening mistiness of victory . . . and the fight song . . .

BASKETBALL

Coach William LaRochelle has moulded what has probably been Merrimack's finest basketball team. Winners in twelve of its first eighteen contests, the Blue and Gold boast upset victories over highly ranked Siena and Brandeis. The team also copped the title in the Babson Invitational Tournament.

Captain Roger Damphousse shows the boys from Suffolk what it takes to be the highest scorer in Merrimack basketball history as he spins one in off the board.

After suddenly slamming on the brakes, Gerry Stopyra goes high in the air for two points in Merrimack's sensational upset over highly rated Siena College.

The whistle blows, the centers leap, and another ball game begins. During the season, the Warrior Booster Club was formed at Merrimack and the students turned out in droves to urge their team on to victory.

The 1961-1962 edition of Merrimack's hockey team was pitted against the toughest schedule in its history. However, Coach Reynolds' boys came out on top in fifty per cent of their games. High scorer was George Pollack, an All-East selection, who in one game netted five goals.

Tom Humphreys and Frank Pollard move to dig the puck out of the corner. Co-Captain Humphreys, with his driving, all-out play has proved an inspiration to the entire team.

HOCKEY

Terry Magner, one of the bright lights of the Merrimack team, swoops in on All New England goalie Barry Urbanski for a score.

The Warriors, hampered by a lack of practice time, have compiled a creditable record against schools of a much larger size. The highlight of the season was the road trip to Rutgers and Pennsylvania where they played inspired hockey and outscored the opposition, 22 to 4.

The Merrimack pucksters, sparked by the outstanding goaltending of Tom Treacy, put a scare into perennial New England powerhouse Bowdoin College before going down to a 3-1 defeat.

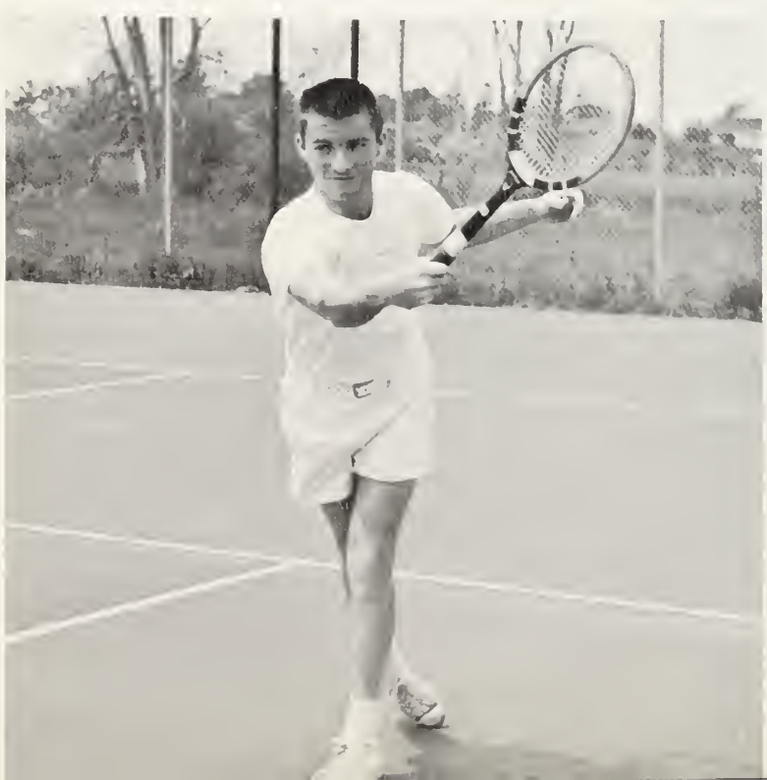
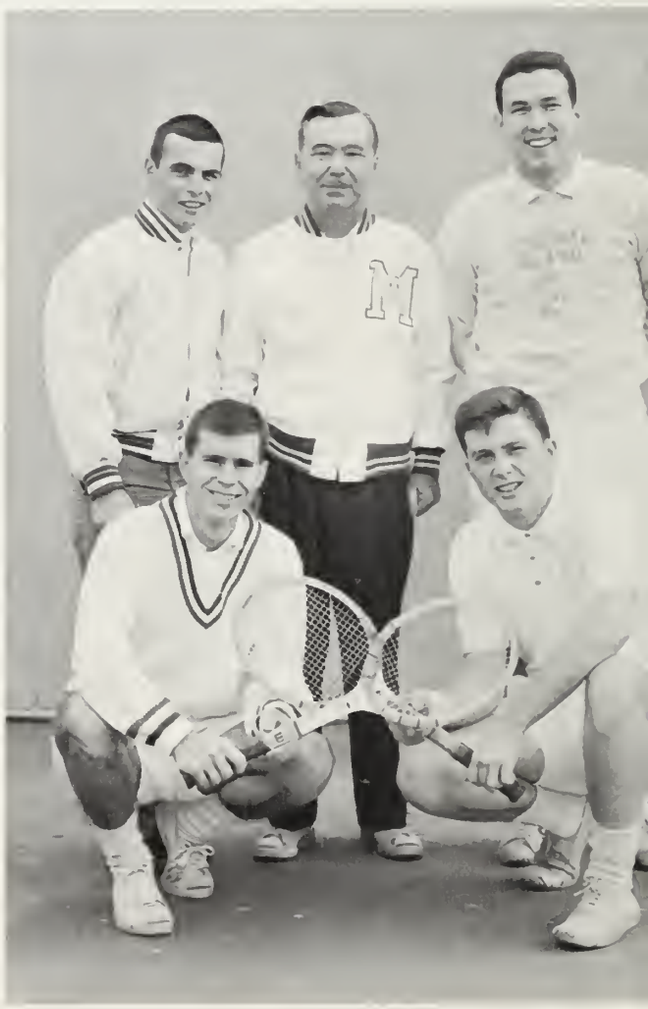
With Phil Breen playing back and Jose Feuyo in the forecourt, Merrimack presents a formidable doubles team to all comers. Enjoying their most successful season in Merrimack's history, the tennis team finished the Spring competition with the outstanding record of ten wins and one loss, including the highlight of the season, a 5-4 upset over powerful Providence College.

TENNIS

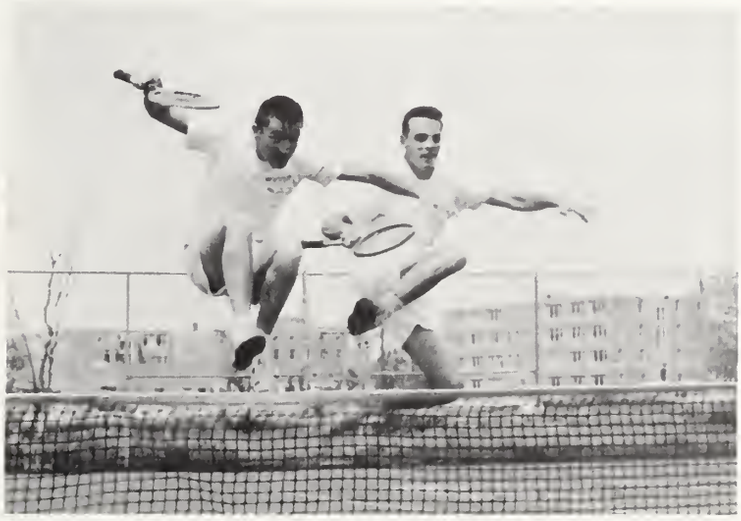
John Cox here displays the winning form that make him one of the mainstays of the Warrior Tennis Team which enjoyed a very successful season this past Spring.





Surrounded by a few of our tennis team stalwarts, Coach Armand Gosselin takes time out for a well deserved bow.

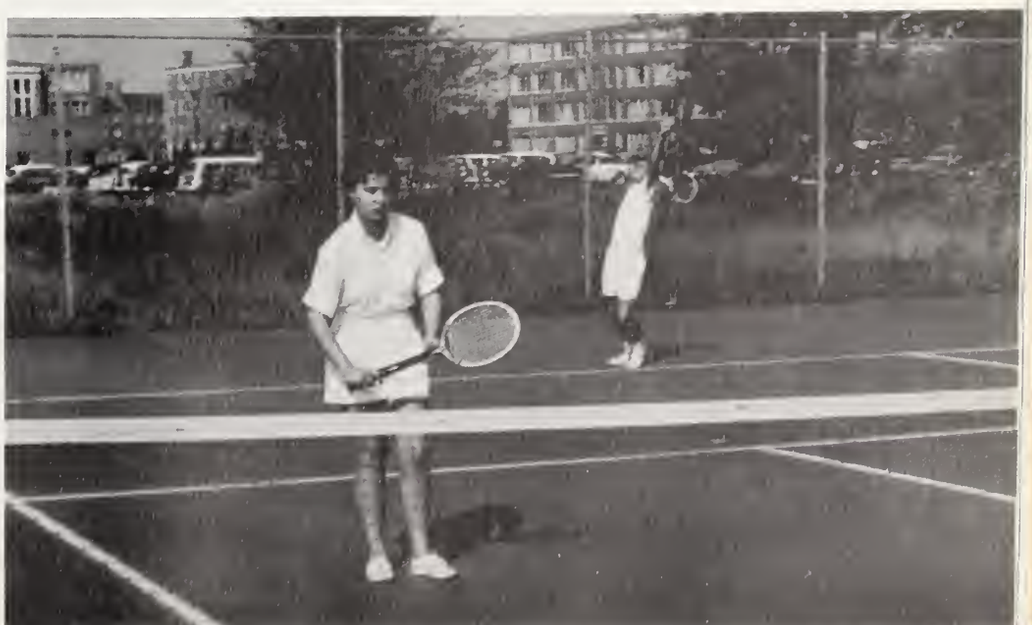
TENNIS CLUB



Practicing their victorious leap over the net, Jack and Pete find this really impresses the girls.

Even if this "ace" might wind up in the boys' dorm, Pete certainly deserves an "A" for form.

The team of Fournier and Fournier (Sue and "Moe") are shown laying down the law to the defendants.



Halfway down the slope, this quartet pauses to wait for Father Walsh to catch up. He made it eventually.

Shown boarding the North Conway skimobile is Dick LeTarte, just prior to one of the innumerable practice runs needed to keep in shape for the inter-collegiate meets.

Senior member of the Ski-team, Dick Kennedy, takes time out from his own practice to give some pointers to Mary Beth Lane and Jack O'Brien. Along with Dick, this year's Ski-team boasts a membership including Harvey Rowe, Bob Pothier, Dick LeTarte and Jack Hogan. Moderator, Father Walsh, has the team entered in competition with teams such as R.P.I., Middlebury and M.I.T.

SKI TEAM

North Conway ski instructor Bud Williams spent a good deal of his time demonstrating the "finer points" to a bevy of would-be experts. More snow would have really been helpful.

SKI TRIP

Harvey Rowe took this gate in stride as he carried our hopes base-ward in an inter-collegiate meet.

This year's ski trip was the largest ever. Lack of snow failed to dampen spirits, as many skiers took to the wooded trails.

GOLF

Dropping one of his longest putts of the season, Dave attribtues this minor miracle to sheer perseverance: "Ya putts 'em long enough and one of them's bound to go in. Besides, anything within fifteen feet is a ginme."

Tim Samway and his "mates" spent considerable time mapping out strategy. At this point Judy Patten is in complete disagreement. Fortunately, cooler heads prevailed and a successful plan was worked out.

SAILING

The sailing team, shown opening a lead in the boat to the far right, has enjoyed relatively little publicity up to now. Despite this, they have maintained winning ways against such competition as Navy, Purdue, M.I.T., Tufts, and Boston College. The team intends to pursue its interests with further vigor next year.

INTRAMURALS

This group of rugged individualists constitute the championship "Vets" team which emerged victorious in the intramural football competition. These league games are characterized by fierce competition and the desire to win on the part of all participants.

Even the faculty get into the spirit of things as Fr. "Mike" McGinnis prepares to let one fly.

Determination and destruction are the order of the day as the fleet halfback sweeps the end and his trusty bodyguard heads the villain off at the pass.

One of the most popular intramural sports on the Merrimack campus is the high-spirited basketball league where the athletic and the arthritic meet. After the first aches and pains have lessened somewhat, the league competition builds up steam and continues down through the championship playoffs.

No surer sign of the coming of Spring is needed at Merrimack than the crack of the bat and ball marking the beginning of the softball competition.

Comprised of the Merrimack athletes engaged in varsity competition, the Varsity Club has been actively engaged in the promotion of sportsmanship and proficiency in the College athletic program.

WINTER CARNIVAL

Shown reigning over the first annual Merrimack College Winter Carnival, the newly crowned Queen, Natalie Frost, and her entire court beam their appreciation. Although this was the first event of this nature held at Merrimack, the Winter Carnival was enthusiastically supported by the student body throughout all the many events of the weekend. This gala affair promises to be the social highlight of the College calendar in the years to come.

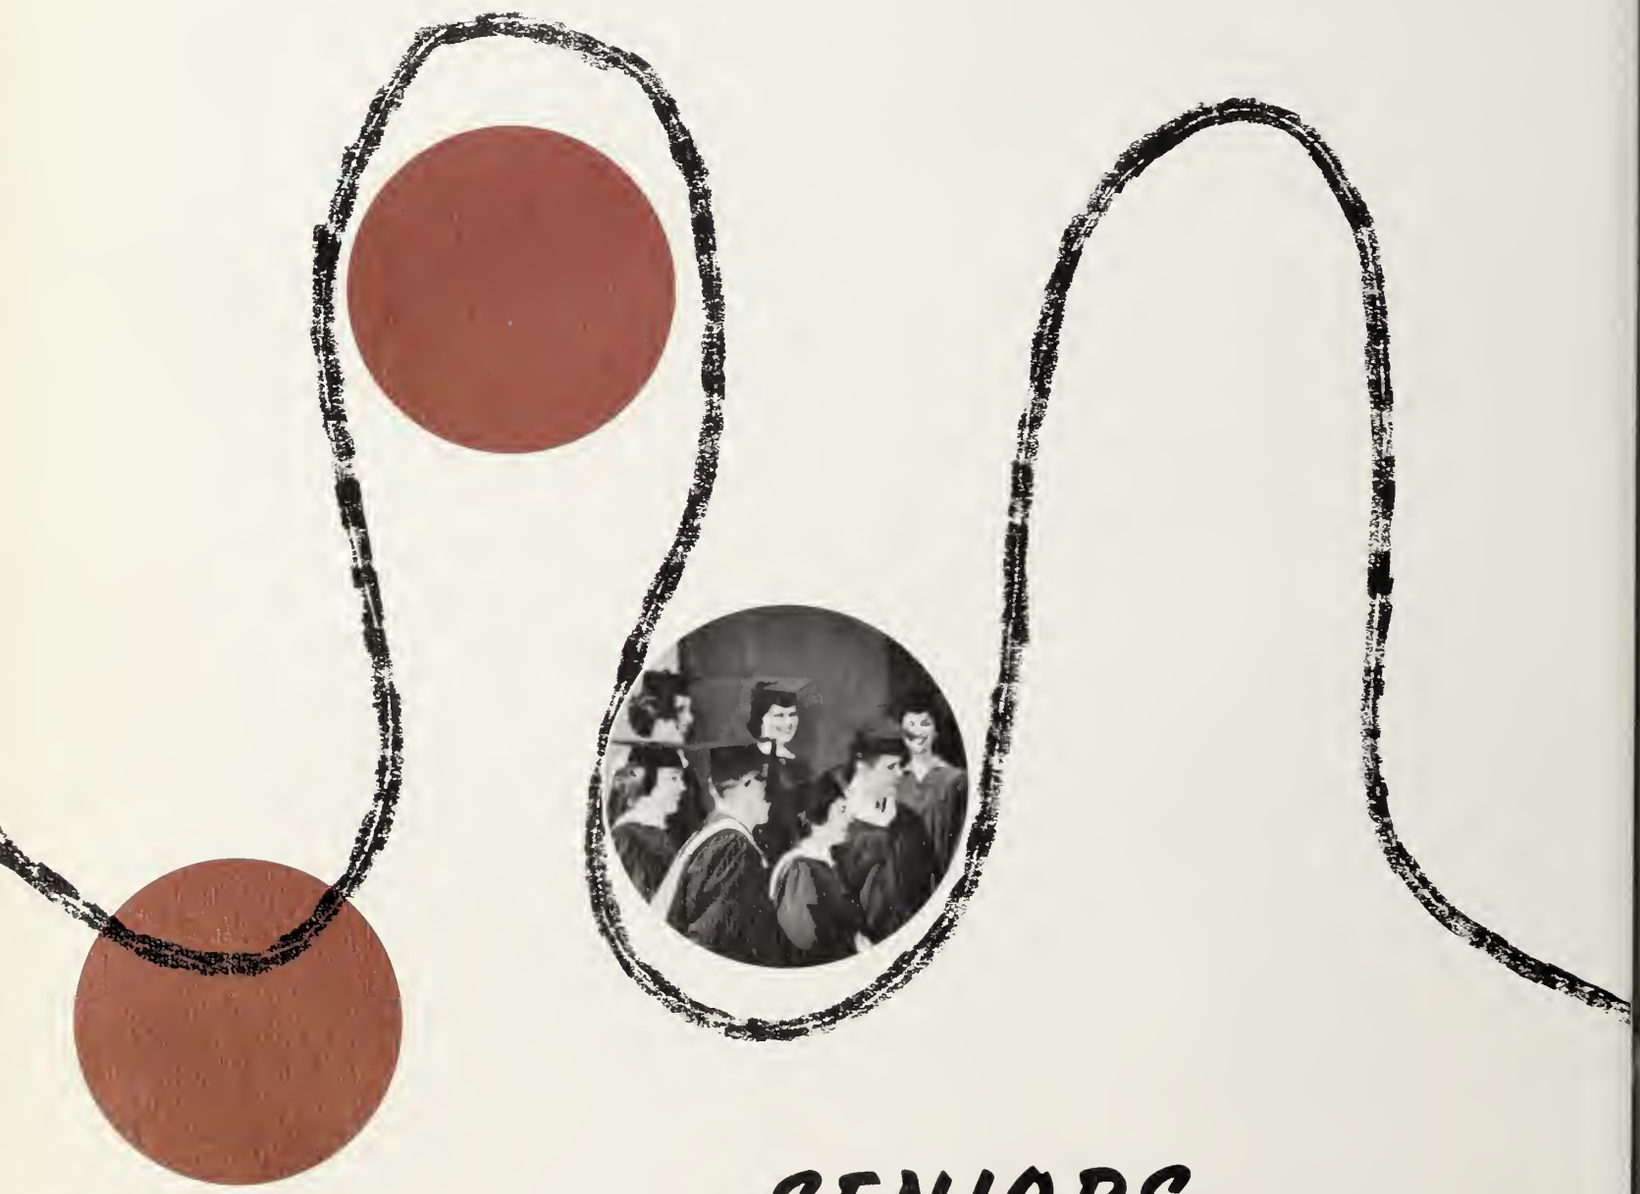
This is Gerry Barry, master of the ski, demonstrating a tremendous amount of poise and ability to the throng gathered on Boston Hill for the Winter Carnival skiing.

This, too, is Gerry Barry.

After a casual dance on Friday evening, a semi-formal dance was held the following night featuring the informal music of the formal Billy Rich orchestra.

The final event of the Winter Carnival found the Merrimack students clapping their hands in rhythm and delight with the folk songs of the Weavers.

It is spring again, but this will be the last for me here. Each moment is precious and fleeting. This past year was a time of laughter sprinkled with tears: the gay moments of the Senior Dinner Dance, saddened by the realization that May was drawing nearer. It was a time of earnest effort: long hours devoted to seminar with its intimate exchange of ideas. It was a time of anticipation of things to come, and then, of goodbyes. Unknowingly, I memorize every pathway, every building etched against the sky. These have become a part of me, a part that will live on in my memories. Now the future, uncertain and yet hopeful, stretches before me. There can be no doubt, no sadness now. This is not an end, but a beginning. . . .



SENIORS

DEDICATION DAY

The ceremonies of Dedication Day are a tradition of this college which has been transferred to every succeeding Junior Class. The tree, flag, and the class gift symbolize the tradition built up by this college and rooted deeply in the hearts of her students. Fifteen years ago Merrimack College embraced an age-old tradition, a Christian tradition, to which the students and the faculty have contributed a distinctive flavor. This characteristic quality, in turn, has been an inspiration to all those intimately related to this institution. We sincerely hope that this Christian and democratic tradition will continue to be nourished and to be forever perpetuated.

Below: Are you graduating? No, just Juniors thinking for ourselves.

With skirts flying, the girls streak toward the finish line and possibly a new world's record.

CO-EDS DAY

No, the Seniors didn't bring their children to school. This just illustrates to what extent the co-eds go on their day at Merrimack. Just the same, they all had fun.

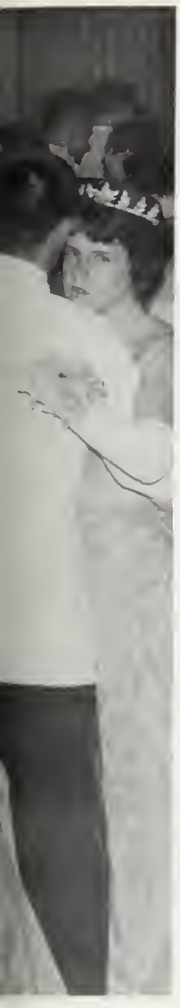
The annual Co-eds Day at Merrimack College is a highlight of Junior Week, which is enthusiastically looked forward to by all sophomore and freshman women. The Junior girls dressed as they had in the first grade, and generally acted as though they wished those days were here again. No one on campus enjoyed themselves more than did those "frolicking females," but dreading their faithful return to the books and the collegiate library the next day. Oh well!!, those are the breaks.

"I knew these Junior girls were crazy!!" "Well, just one day's madness isn't too bad."

Delightful music from the clarinet of Woody Herman and his 16 piece ensemble is obviously enchanting these handsome couples. Jim and his lovely wife, Tommy and Liz, but Norman—don't get too close!

The social climax of a long, wonderful week for the Junior Class was the Junior Prom. The internationally famous orchestra of Woody Herman performed in the dazzling atmosphere of the Hillview Country Club, and the enthusiasm displayed by the dancers was an indication of the complete success of this gala event. At midnight, everyone sat down to a wonderful meal while the Frankie Kahn combo played for dancing and listening pleasure. We are all sure that this evening will stand out as one wonderful memory in our four years at Merrimack College, and we sincerely hope succeeding classes will enjoy as much success in their endeavors.

Pat and Eddie have every right to be ecstatic. Their hard work as co-chairmen of this, the most enjoyable Junior Prom in Merrimack's history, is certainly appreciated by their classmates. Congratulations on a job very well done.



JUNIOR PROM

Vice President Bill Horan and the lovely Mary Butler pose while swaying to the music of the Old Woodchopper. Woody Herman.

"What do you mean John looks older in his white jacket! I'll have you know we're the same age."

Above: The candidates for Queen dance calmly while awaiting the judges' decision. Below: Two more couples arrive for a wonderful evening: Doug and his date and Bob and beautiful wife Mary.

Fr. Fenton, our class moderator, chats with the students as they proceed through the reception line. Mr. St. Germain looks dashing, doesn't he?

After being chosen from ten candidates, Peggy McGinnis was crowned Queen of the Junior Prom by her escort, Jack Devine. He needed some direction, since he isn't a Bert Parks.

The Queen of the Junior Prom, Peggie McGinnis, is surrounded by her court, Judy Dwyer, Grace Pappalardo, Maryanne Twomey, and Sheila Driscoll.

Woody Herman poses with some class members and they all seem to be enjoying it.

"It's Sing Along With Paul Girard night," brought to you by the Junior Class. Guest stars, who are trying to join in, but don't know the words, are Dave McLaughlin and Bob Carter.

The Senior Class takes this opportunity to thank the Class Officers for the great job they did this year in formulating and conducting the class activities, and for the added responsibility they have taken upon themselves of carrying out the class's duties in all future alumni affairs. To Treasurer Mary Butler, Secretary Maryanne Twomey, President Bill Horan, and Vice-President Tom Moore, Congratulations on a job well done.

ADLIBS

Parting is such sweet sorrow.

Look, Mike, no cavities!

Do you really want to twist?

It's a camera!

This stuff makes my hair stand on end.

Thanks . . . for the memories.

How about an up-tempo tune, Pete . . . Mary Ann is asleep again.

WHO'S WHO IN AMERICAN COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

Nineteen members of the Class of '62 have been chosen for nationwide recognition by Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. These students were first officially recommended by Merrimack and then accepted by the organization.

In making their selections the campus nominating committee considered the student's scholarship, his participation and leadership in academic and extra-curricular activities, his citizenship and service to the College, and his promise of future influences.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The 1962 MERRIMACKAN represents much time and many talents. In addition to the staff, there are a great many individuals to whom the sincerest gratitude and appreciation should be extended. I take this opportunity to speak for the staff and for those among the student body who were not so fortunate as to serve with us but who will enjoy with us the fruits of these labors.

- To Rev. Donald X. Burt, O.S.A., whose guidance gave us courage, whose wit kept us smiling, thank you.
- To Mr. John Ursprung, Jr., of William T. Cooke Publishing Company, Inc., whose technical assistance gave us direction, whose deadlines gave us headaches, thank you.
- To Mr. Robert Talbot of Loring Studios, whose cooperation was unlimited, thank you.
- To the myriad contributors whose assistance in any manner lightened our task, in your anonymity please accept our thank you.
